Ursula Leach: High Hedge

Oil on Canvas, 60 x 60 cm

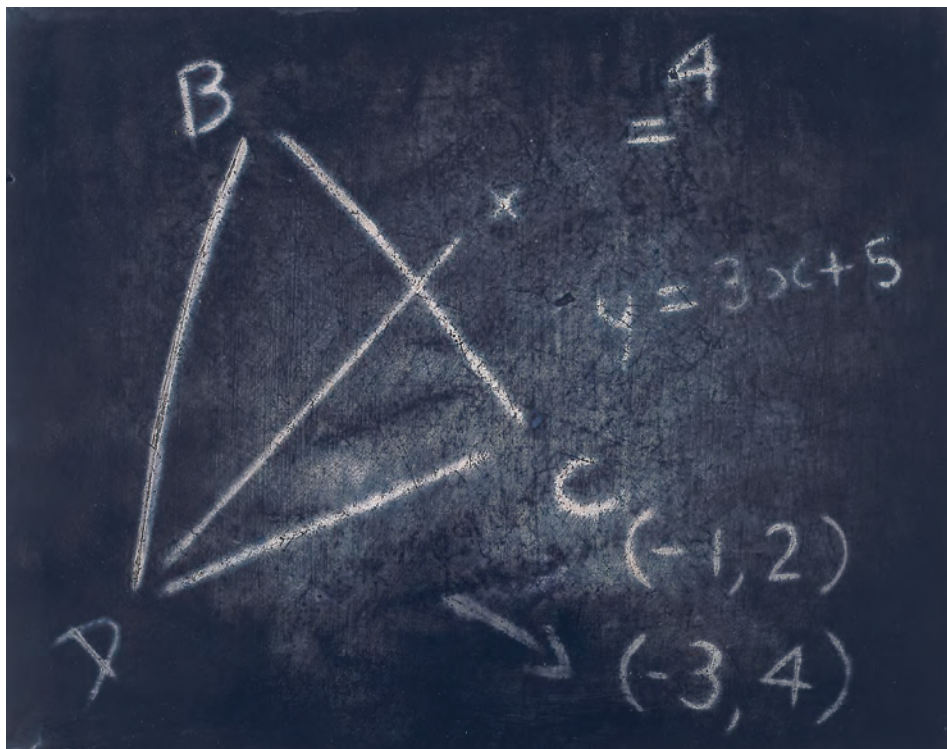

ARTIST'S STATEMENT: "Last year in a national newspaper I saw a photograph of a large hedge in Dorset. The adjoining article was asking for volunteers to help survey hedges for the Great Big Dorset Hedge initiative. The results are then relayed to farmers who could then make good their hedges from the findings and maybe get a grant. Hedges are important as corridors and food for wildlife and insects, also they are barriers against flooding and soil erosion. So I volunteered and the project for my next one person exhibition was born. I have always been interested in what is happening on the land, particularly agricultural land. Now I focussed on hedges and having made drawings, colour notes and taken photographs on the motif I move these observations into paintings and prints in the studio to express distinctive aspects of particular hedges in their setting. The canvas provides a forum for investigating pictorial space creating a dialogue between interior and edge. It is the formal aspects of image making that really engage me, space, shape and particularly colour. Colour is used in a way that is non-literal. Placing colours one against the other is intended to evoke a parallel to the atmosphere of the subject (landscape) however different that colour is from reality. By radical editing and simplification of colour, shape and composition I hope to stimulate a direct reaction in the audience."

AMANDA WALLWORK 'THE LAST LESSON'

Housework at The Sherborne

Sherborne House is remembered by many as a leading contemporary art space in the heart of Sherborne - a venue that brought the likes of Gavin Turk to rural Dorset and encouraged artists to respond to the space rather than just exhibit in it. Curated initially by artist led group Sherborne Contemporary Arts (SCA), and later by Sherborne House Arts (SHA) the house provided a much needed exhibiting and meeting space.

Some of the work produced was intrinsically linked to the house's previous incarnations, as a private home and then a girls' school, woven together to produce an eclectic vision of past and present. Not only did Sherborne House Arts produce a diverse range of exhibitions and activity but it was also the catalyst for collaborative artistic and curatorial activity within the county. SHA launched collectives such as Big Picture and Ex Lab, and organisations that have emerged from this include b-side and Evolver Magazine.

After a hiatus in activity and an extraordinary amount of restoration work Housework is the first exhibition to be shown at Sherborne House now it has fully reopened. Marrying commercial activity with creative, to secure a sustainable future, The Sherborne has chosen Dorset Visual Arts (DVA) as its creative partner to plan a full programme of exhibitions and events. DVA will re-establish the house as a venue of regional and international import in the art world, with thriving educational and community arts programmes running alongside rotating exhibitions and high-end work by artists and makers.

We cannot underestimate the importance of what happened here during these years, and this exhibition, curated by artist Amanda Wallwork in association with Evolver Magazine, seeks to recognise the role the house played as well as a chance to show some of the works created in response to the building over the years.

Evolver Magazine has had a longstanding relationship with Sherborne House and we are delighted to play a part in making this exhibition happen.

Until 13 July: The Sherborne, Sherborne House, Newland, SHERBORNE, DT9 3JG. Tuesday - Saturday 11am - 5pm, Sunday 11am - 4pm.

Rum Ragged

Rum Ragged take a bold approach to the distinct folk music of their home, the Eastern Canadian island of Newfoundland. With a reverence for their roots and a creative, contemporary edge, this young band has quickly become known as the finest purveyors of their great, living, musical tradition.

Boasting bouzouki, fiddle, bodhran, banjo, guitar, and button accordion, these new champions of East Coast music enliven and enlighten audiences with their signature brand of Newfoundland folk.

Always honest, thought-provoking, and often humorous, it's Rum Ragged's live show that makes them a fast favourite with any audience.

Their combination of striking vocal harmonies, staggering musicianship, and captivating storytelling gives concert-goers an unforgettable experience.

Rum Ragged is not your run-of-the-mill folk band, they are the genuine article.

Tony Viney

Tony Viney was a huge presence in the Dorset arts and music scene and was responsible for setting up and running many of the local arts organisations and projects that have become fixtures of the local arts world. He was one of the original members of Corfe Castle's Boilerhouse Gallery and the reason Sandy Hill Arts exists - his generosity and foresight safeguarding the Sandy Hill Studios site from development, and getting charitable status to ensure the arts had a secure base and a long future in Purbeck.

A Healing Environment: Earth, Sea and Sky

The Red Dress

"The Red Dress project, created by artist Kirstie Macleod, is an inspiring platform for women around the world to share their stories through embroidery. From 2009 to 2023, the Red Dress travelled the globe, being continuously embroidered on by women and men from 51 countries. Each artist was encouraged to express their unique identity and cultural experience through their embroidery. The Red Dress is not just a beautiful garment, but also a symbol of women's resilience and strength. It has been displayed in various galleries and museums worldwide, winning first prize in the Premio Valcellina Textiles award in Maniago, Italy. The Red Dress, now completed and covered in millions of stitches, carries the weight of countless individual stories and collective voices waiting to be heard. This project has not only provided a creative outlet for women but has also helped rebuild lives and provide sustainable income."

Acts of Creation: On Art and Motherhood

"While the Madonna and Child is one of the great subjects of European art, we rarely see art about motherhood as a lived experience, in all its complexity. Acts of Creation: On Art and Motherhood will address this blind spot in art history, asserting the artist mother as an important - if rarely visible - cultural figure. Featuring the work of more than sixty modern and contemporary artists, this exhibition will approach motherhood as a creative enterprise, albeit one at times tempered by ambivalence, exhaustion or grief. Acts of Creation will explore lived experience of motherhood, offering a complex account that engages with contemporary concerns about gender, caregiving and reproductive rights."

Purbeck Art Weeks Festival

Purbeck Art Weeks (PAW) Festival invites art lovers and curious minds to a two-week long celebration of art in all its forms. Artists across the region will be opening their studio doors, some for the first time, inviting you to enjoy the rich tapestry of artistic talent that thrives in the heart of Purbeck.

Start your journey at Rollington Barn, nestled near Corfe Castle, which hosts PAW's extensive collective exhibition, showcasing established and emerging artists working across painting, textiles, metalwork, glass art, woodworking, ceramics and more. In the Byre, visitors will discover the inspiring pieces created by young people involved in the Purbeck Young Artists programme and don't miss The Spirit of Rollington - an intriguing installation by artist Charlotte Fereday.

The evenings come alive with a series of concerts and other events, including a celebration of summertime with cornetto player Gawain Glenton and In Echo, I Fagiolini performing a four-choir mass, The Fieri Consort's enchanting sounds inspired by birdsong, Helen Charlston and Toby Carr with English songs from the 16th and 17th centuries, and the wonderful vocal ensemble The Gesualdo Six. Distinguished sculptor Philip Jackson will be speaking on The Changing Face of Beauty, and The Purbeck Poets will be running their open mic poetry night event.

'HIGH CLIFFS 9 (ORKNEY)' (Acrylic on board, 87 x 129 cm, 2024)

Vanessa Gardiner: Sea Cliffs

"Clean lines, dynamic surfaces and thrilling coastal subject matter are the defining features of Vanessa Gardiner's work. Wonderful new paintings of her beloved Boscastle, Tintagel and Godrevy, subjects she loves, has known all her life and has painted often and brilliantly, this exhibition also includes the excitement of finding a new place to paint. Looking at these paintings, there is no doubt that Vanessa was bowled over by Orkney. The giddy proportions of this wild, end of the world landscape gave rise to a rush of ideas and sketches, which she worked out in beautiful little works on card. Back at home the preoccupation deepened and the larger paintings that began to appear revel in the shockingly sheer cliffs and dramatic angles, the juxtaposition of curves with straight lines, the new colours - lichen yellow, rich red-brown sandstone, a deep and different turquoise blue. While Vanessa always honours her subject matter with precise veracity, these are paintings with more than one perspective, looking down, across and out to sea all at once."

The Sound of Wessex

MAKE FRIENDS

First up for this new Sound of Wessex column is a mystery delivery by none other than our very own Mr Simon Barber. Simon excitedly dropped off a test pressing at the shop this week. Who doesn't love a test pressing? Shiny new and with the promise of untold riches, and this was no disappointment. The white labelled seven inch housed in matching sleeve contained the new single by i-nichi, and what a single it is! i-nichi is primarily Tokyo-based but Wessex-active singer songwriter Seiko Nemoto, whose name has been bandied about by my good friend Adam for some time now. This is the first opportunity for me to check out a studio recording by Seiko, joined by multi instrumentalist Philip Collings. The EP contains three great tracks Mimiko, Richard Sinclair and Dear Mr. David Shrigley, three of the most charming indie / alternative tracks you're likely to hear this year. A beautiful EP recorded at Axe & Trap studios in Wells by Ben Turner will be released on Spinout Nuggets on Friday 31st May on limited edition yellow vinyl. To celebrate the release Seiko will be performing a selection of tracks at Clocktower Records in Bridport, see bridportandwestbay.co.uk for all the important details.

I-NICHI

Wessex's finest purveyors of electronica and modular ambience Twilight Sequence are set to play the Acid Horse festival in Pewsey (24 - 26 May). This is in build up to the much anticipated second album due to be released on the Castles in Space label later in the year. The outfit also play at Images in Plymouth on Friday 28th June with Ubiquitous Meh! and Luminous Foundation, a line-up not to be missed!

Bristol based band Make Friends have released the first single from their upcoming EP. Produced by Ed Nash (of Bombay Bicycle Club fame), Loaded Fun sees the band continue their growth into a fine indie rock band, providing fans with fantastic upbeat grooves and emotive, thought provoking lyrics about the ups and downs of life. Lead singer Tom Andrew says: "Loaded Fun is a post break-up song. The title depicts having 'fun' but at a cost, in this instance using drugs excessively to enjoy the company of your partner. The chorus of the song best describes that post break-up feeling, where you know that you've lost a part of your life, however you don't miss the anxiety and occasions where Loaded Fun seemed like your only option. And realising that you don't have to put up with any of it."

Also Bristol based, The Lovely Basement have been promoting their recently released third album Lazy Travellers with a host of live dates and a tour of Spain. The album has had some great radio play, with Gideon Coe (6 Music) being a fan. Local gigs at venues like the Thunderbolt in Bristol have gone down a storm with fans of sweet, low key indie jumping on the album with aplomb. The album mixes English and American influences. Some great jangly indie, some smooth slide guitar and some incredibly sweet vocals make for a fantastic listen.

Everything The Wrong Way Round is the latest album by The Rhynes, side project of regular member of Flipron and the Neville Staple Band, Joe Atkinson. The whole album is written and sung by Joe with his trademark keyboard skills dominating proceedings alongside some nostalgic '90s style indie guitars. Comparisons bandied about have been Tim Burgess and Steven Duffy. I would concur but also raise you a comparison to Shack. However, this albums stands firmly on its own two feet with Joe pulling off some very solid tunes including the fantastically catchy Jennifer and Anyways.

Hags: A Musical Extravaganza

"In Bideford in 1682, the final witch trial in Britain took place. Three women were accused of witchcraft, tried and hanged. Now fast forward to the present day and name one female magician... pretty tricky. But tonight, three fearless females are climbing out of their boxes, shaking off the sequins and investigating what really happened in a small town in North Devon 300 years ago. Packed full of magic tricks, physical comedy and live music, our magiciennes explore the witch-hunt mania that swept the country and sent hundreds of innocent women to the gallows. With mind-blowing illusions, stupendous stunts and the occasional disappearing rabbit, Hags sets the record straight for thousands of falsely accused women with all the joy, silliness and spectacle these three can muster."
